Incident report for Case#2008-107420
Incident Type	Prowler
Incident Date	04/23/2008 - 8:08 PM
Address	Home in the McKenna Blvd./Hammersley Road area
Suspect(s)	Perpetrator is described as a male, white, 20-25 years old, 5'11", 180 lbs., blonde - possible dyed - hair, facial stubble, wearing dirty white t-shirt, baggy blue jean shorts. He was smoking a cigarette, and seen leaving in a bluish or grey 4-door, older, beat-up car.
Details	On April 23rd, shortly after 8:00 p.m., a Madison resident (a woman in her 50's) contacted the MPD after finding a prowler peering into her rear patio door, which is very close to a daughter's bedroom window. The woman confronted the prowler and he claimed to be waiting for a friend. The victim then recognized this person as being the same man she caught peeping in the same daughter's bedroom window in the fall of 2007. She did not report the first incident to the MPD. This time, after putting two and two together, the woman grabbed her cell phone, called 911, and followed - at a safe distance - the prowler as he began to run down Jacobs Way. She saw him get into a car and speed away. The perpetrator's description is somewhat similar to that of a man who exposed himself to a woman who was running on a bike path near Hammersley Road on Tuesday, April 22nd (see prior incident report); however, it is not known if the cases are connected.
