For the last two years, residents around the City have participated in focus groups, community meetings, on-line surveys and one-on-one interviews to share their ideas about how Madison supports and utilizes arts, culture, and creative work.

At the end of 2011, consultant Mary Berryman Agard of Madison presented the Cultural Plan Steering Committee with her recommendations for the first citywide Cultural Plan.

Members of the Cultural Plan Steering Committee would like to meet with Madison residents to share highlights of the plan and hear reaction before they advance final recommendations to the Madison Common Council.
