

The Madison Public Market District Site Selection Community Conversations

The City recently completed phase 1 of the Public Market District Business Plan. This study revealed a strong interest and high-level of demand for the idea of a Madison Public Market. Further, the Phase 1 report expanded the City's vision of the Market to be a "Market District" with numerous co-located, related uses that evolve over time. Phase 2 of the Business Plan includes identifying a location of the Public Market District and defining its attributes and amenities.

You are invited to attend any of the scheduled "Community Conversations." These will be your opportunity to share your ideas about which locations in Madison can best fulfill the vision of the Public Market District.

Each meeting will have the same agenda and include a brief presentation followed by lively and engaging small group exercises and discussions.
