

City of Madison
Jeffrey Clay Erlanger
Civility in Public Discourse Award

Recipients

2007

R. Richard “Dick” Wagner

Dick Wagner served on the Dane County Board of Supervisors from 1980 – 1994, including service as county board chair. He has also served on a number of city and county committees, including Transport 2020 and the Madison Urban Design Commission. He has been a leader in advancing major civic projects such as Monona Terrace and Olbrich Botanical Gardens.

2008

Judy K. Olson

Judy Olson represented the 6th District on the Madison Common Council from 1995 – 2007. She was instrumental in the completion of several neighborhood plans which helped guide development in this near east side district, chaired the city’s Living Wage Task Force, and assisted in the completion of the city’s Climate Protection Plan.

Warren Onken

Warren Onken served on the Madison Common Council, representing the 15th and the 3rd districts and becoming Madison’s longest serving alderperson. He served for many years on the Board of Estimates, the city’s finance committee, and was a leader who was able to bring many of the city’s most controversial issues to resolution. After serving on the council, he has continued to contribute through volunteer service on the Madison Public Library Foundation.

2009

Nan Fey

Nan Fey has been a member of a number of city committees, including the Madison Plan Commission, where she has served for a number of years as chair. In that capacity she has guided the commission as it has dealt with many high profile and often contentious issues. She is also a leader in the city’s sustainability efforts.

2010

Rachel Krinsky

Rachel Krinsky has served as the Executive Director of The Road Home Dane County since 2000. Under her leadership the agency has grown from a small family homeless shelter to an organization offering six housing programs for formerly homeless families with children. She has been a leader in finding housing solutions for low income families, working as a member of committees such as the United Way Basic Needs Team and the Shelter Providers Group, and with community partners, among which are the more than 50 congregations which help the provide shelter through The Road Home Shelter Network.