VALUES OF TRUST-BASED POLICING

Trust Challenges

We must recognize that trust-gaps exist within some of the communities we serve. It is our responsibility to participate in a dialog that promotes collaborative relationship building to close those trust-gaps.

Ethical Behavior

We understand that public trust is the foundation of our profession. We further recognize that it is our responsibility to uphold the laws and ensure that justice is served. We are committed to being consistently fair in the execution of these duties, while maintaining the highest standards of integrity and honesty.

Problem Solving and Quality Focus

We must assure that our commitment to quality and continuous improvement shows through the service that we provide to the community. This will be accomplished through collaborative problem-solving models, and continuous evaluation of internal work systems.

Citizen Involvement

We believe all members of our community are responsible for public safety. We strive to educate our community about our capabilities and limitations, while empowering them to have a voice in public safety solutions. It is a community expectation that we hold people accountable for their criminal behavior.

Leadership

We believe in a situational leadership model that is flexible and responsive. The focus is on employee engagement, balancing task and relationship needs, that provides structured leadership behaviors that are supportive to employees. We view all our employees as leaders.

Employee

We believe that each employee offers a valuable contribution to our department. We also recognize that it is the diversity of our workforce that provides the foundation for success. It is the goal of the department to empower all employees to carry out the mission of the Madison Police Department.

A MESSAGE FROM POLICE CHIEF NOBLE WRAY

The Madison Police Department (MPD) made progress on a number of different fronts in the three key areas that define our service: Community Policing, Problem Solving, and Building Trust. Certainly day-to-day public safety and service to our citizens is paramount, but in 2007 we started the process of building a foundation for our department vision.

To that end, we initiated the Department Strategic Planning process, where community members and MPD personnel met in the spring of 2007 to create the strategic direction for the MPD in six topic areas: Staffing and Organizational structure, City Growth, Emergency Preparedness, Technology, Organizational Health and Wellness, and Trust Based Policing. We look forward to completing this plan to provide the department and community with a framework for our shared vision of the future.

We again saw a great improvement in the annual State Street Halloween celebration, which is now called "Freak Fest." This makes the second year in a row that the event has ended without incident.

We made two important steps to make sure that MPD civilian staff are connected to the organization's mission and have access to key information within the department. In 2007 we started our first department-wide civilian inservice, where training and discussions took place related to issues that impact our civilian employees. We also had our first full year of Civilian Advisory Council "CAC" modeled off of the Officers Advisory Council. These councils provide employees with the opportunity to give direct feedback and input to the Chief of Police on issues impacting their work.

2007 was MPD's last year to host the International Problem Oriented Policing Conference. Just under 400 law enforcement officers from around the world gathered in Madison to share innovative ideas on solving crime and improving quality of life for our citizens.

Although violent crime went down in Madison by 14.2% in 2007, overall crime went up by 5.5%. The drop in violent crime was due to the improving conditions in the Allied Dr. area and the successful implementation of the Downtown Safety Initiative (DSI). The DSI was a strategy to reduce alcohol-related street violence where the Central District officers work in partnership with Downtown stakeholders to implement the initiatives. The Central District had a 2% drop in violent crime in 2007.

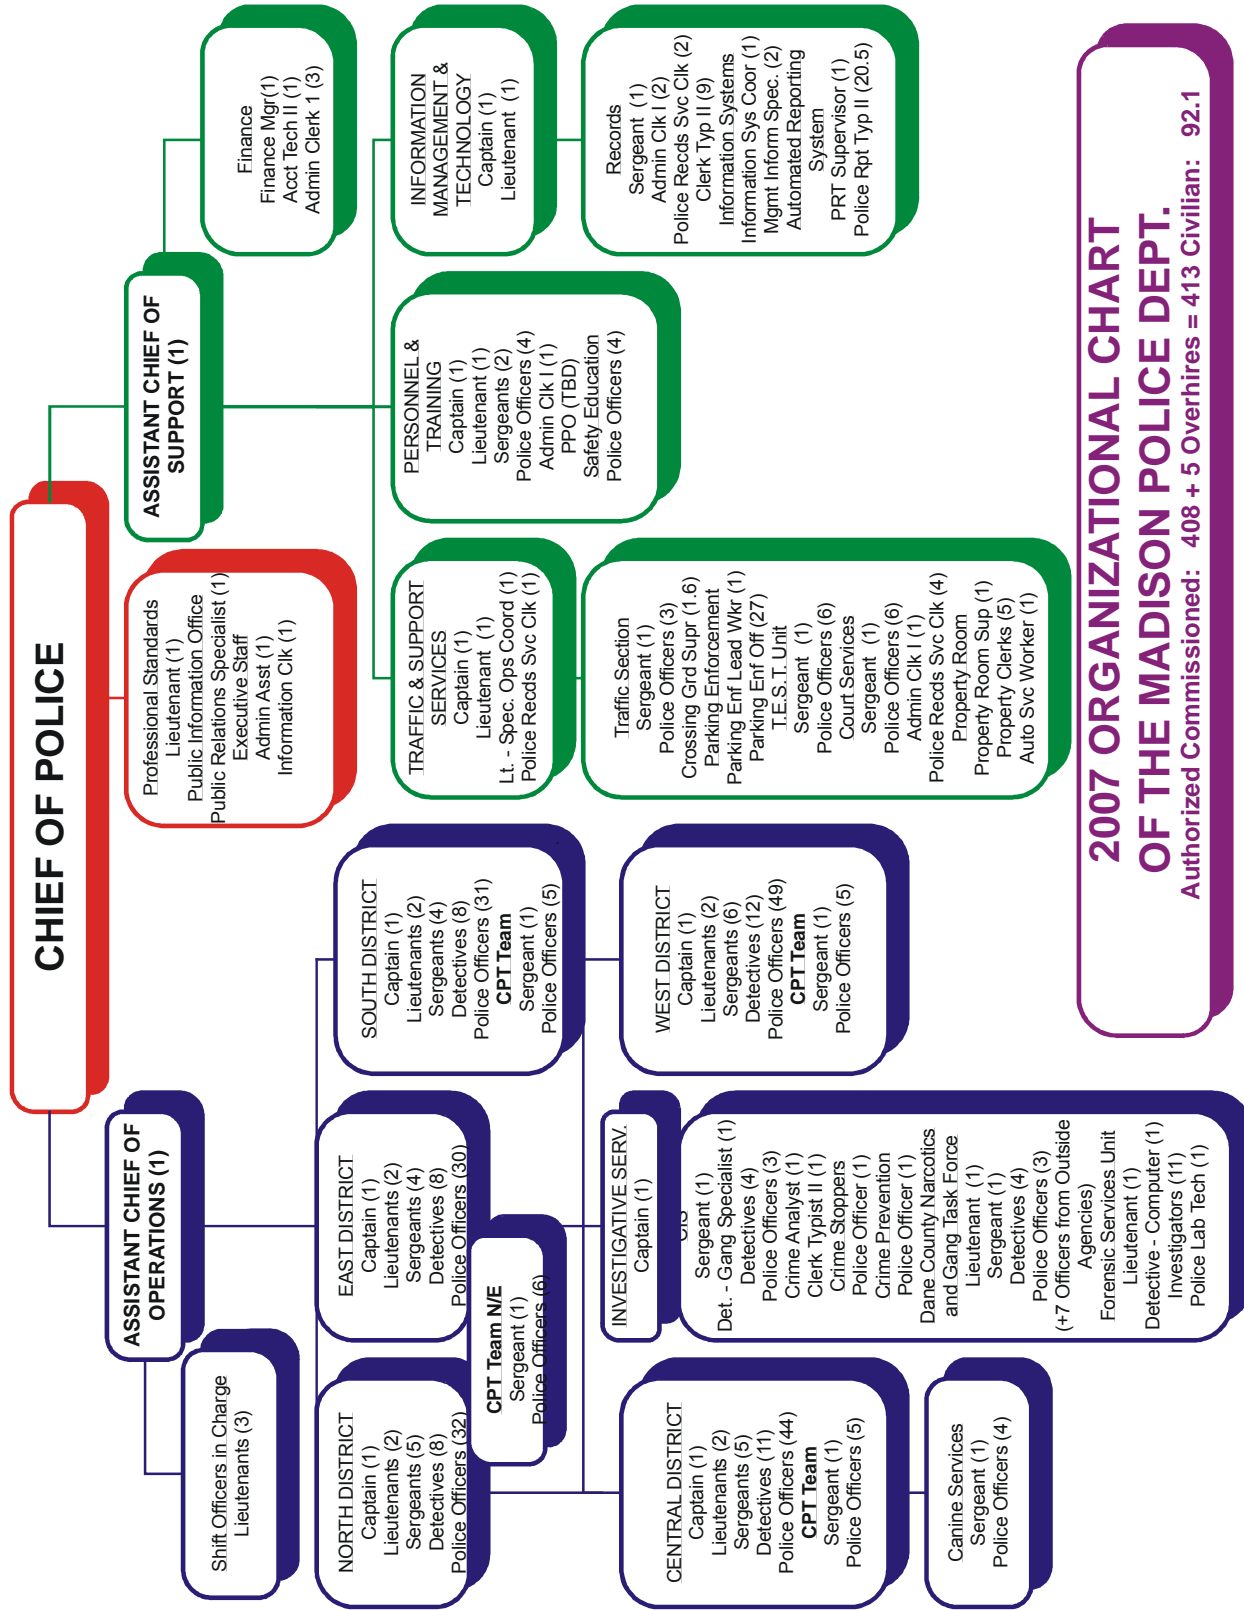

We also heard from hundreds of citizens at a series of listening sessions held at different locations throughout the City of Madison. These listening sessions were attended by me and Mayor and a number of other key City staff. The overriding message from citizens was that we needed to focus on basic services and quality of life issues. We captured the information shared by citizens at the listening sessions and will make sure that it is part of our response to public safety in 2008.

The year ended with the Mayor and Common Council approving 30 additional officers above our authorized police staffing. This was the largest increase in police personnel in the City's history. We look forward to assigning these additional officers in 2008 to meet the challenges of our ever-evolving city. In closing, let me say that the men and women of this department remain dedicated to meeting the increasing demands and making sure Madison continues to be one of the best places to live in the country.

I hope you enjoy the 2007 Annual Report.

The overall function of these teams was very dynamic in nature as they served to support and enhance district police services delivered to the community. * The burglary clearance rate is believed to be higher than actually reported above. Burglaries often occur in trends or multiples, and are often committed by small groups or single individuals targeting specific geographic locations, businesses or residences. Once suspects are identified and arrested, we continue to work on our internal systems for clearing burglary cases by arrest, or "exceptionally clearing" these cases when the suspect's identity is known but no formal charges are forthcoming.

* The Dane County 911 Public Safety Communications Center has historically attempted to provide MPD with information on “dropped calls” (e.g., calls for service not dispatched to an officer due to insufficient resources at the time and disposed in the CAD with a dropped call code). It has come to our attention, however, that 911 Center staff have not consistently applied this “dropped call” definition. Due to these inconsistencies, MPD and the 911 Center are working to improve the reliability of future “dropped call” related dispositions and information.
