Under public works contracts, if a subcontractor is in noncompliance, the City may recover liquidated damages from the prime Contractor in the manner described above. The preceding sentence shall not be construed to prohibit a prime Contractor from recovering the amount of such damage from the noncomplying subcontractor.

ARTICLE VIII

(This Article applies to public works contracts only.)

The Contractor shall include the above provisions of this Contract in every subcontract so that such provisions will be binding upon each subcontractor. The Contractor shall take such action with respect to any subcontractor as necessary to enforce such provisions, including sanctions provided for noncompliance.

ARTICLE IX

3. SCOPE OF SERVICES, PROPOSALS, AND SCHEDULE OF PAYMENTS – 2020 Impervious Area Layer Development

A. Project Background and Need

The City of Madison Engineering Division, Stormwater Section (City Engineering) is tasked with developing and maintaining computer models of the City and its stormwater infrastructure. City Engineering's stormwater modeling program can be generally subdivided into two subprograms, I) hydrologic and hydraulic modeling and II) water quality modeling. Both modeling efforts require land use inputs, including accurate differentiation between pervious and impervious surfaces, to produce useful results. The two modeling programs, and the use of impervious areas in each, are described below.

- I. City Engineering's hydrologic and hydraulic (H&H) modeling program is designed to identify stormwater quantity capacity within the City's infrastructure. City Engineering staff and consultants use H&H models, including but not limited to XP-SWMM, PC-SWMM, and HydroCAD, to simulate select areas and stormwater management infrastructure (ponds, pipes, etc.) within the City. These models are often referred to as "flood models," and are used by City Engineering to pinpoint areas that require, and can accommodate, further detention, infiltration or increased conveyance potential during large precipitation events ("design storms"). The City's Watershed Studies effort is one component of this H&H modeling program.

Knowledge of a modeled area's land use, and particularly the delineation of pervious and impervious areas within it, is critical to accurately modeling the hydrology of that area. When precipitation falls on pervious area, more water is infiltrated and/or held back from the storm sewer system than when it falls on an impervious layer.

In fact, impervious areas can be even more finely broken down based on how connected they are to the main drainage network. When precipitation falls on the street, or on a driveway that drains directly to the street, it can quickly and efficiently enter the storm sewer system. This type of impervious area is called "Directly Connected Impervious Area," or DCIA. However, when precipitation falls on a roof that drains to a grassed area, that water is slowed down by the higher roughness of the surface, and some is infiltrated before it can ever reach the system. This type of impervious area is called "Non-directly Connected Impervious Area," or NDCIA. Therefore, for H&H modeling, impervious vs. pervious areas as well as DCIA vs. NDCIA are important input parameters, and accurate maps of both are critical to developing useful models.

- II. City Engineering's water quality (WQ) modeling program is designed to quantify how efficient the City's stormwater infrastructure is at removing pollutants, specifically particulates and phosphorus, from stormwater runoff. City Engineering staff uses the stormwater quality model WinSLAMM to evaluate the performance of individual treatment practices (including but not limited to ponds, infiltration basins, and bioretention facilities) as well as the City's stormwater system as a whole.

As in H&H modeling, knowledge of a modeled area's land use, including the breakdown between pervious and impervious areas, and DCIA versus NDCIA, is critical to accurately evaluating the efficiency and effectiveness of water quality treatment practices. Hydrology is highly linked to how efficiently a downstream treatment device can treat incoming stormwater runoff. In a highly directly connected impervious area, more water will arrive at a treatment practice more quickly and uniformly, straining and possibly overwhelming that practice. If, however, the input area is more pervious, or the impervious area is “disconnected” from the main drainage channel (converted from DCIA to NDCIA), stormwater runoff will be slowed and reduced in quantity due to infiltration, which will allow the same treatment practice to function more efficiently and possibly remove more pollutants from the water before discharging it.

Water quality modeling further relies on an accurate breakdown between impervious area classification. A parking lot will have more and different pollutant deposition than a roof; even if both are directly connected to the storm sewer system, the concentration of pollutants in stormwater runoff from the former will be much higher than from the latter. For this reason, water quality modeling generally requires an even more specific breakdown of impervious area types than H&H modeling.

Due to the close link between impervious area and runoff quantity and quality, the City of Madison Stormwater Utility bills commercial property owners based on the impervious area on their lots.

B. Scope of Work

The City of Madison is requesting the construction of an impervious area, GIS-compatible layer for use in stormwater quantity and quality modeling (as outlined in Section 1), as well as in developing accurate Stormwater Utility billing amounts for commercial property owners within the City of Madison. The construction of this layer will be based on existing data, as described in Section C.

Due to budgeting considerations, City Engineering has broken this request into five parts, labeled Tasks 1 through 5. Furthermore, City Engineering has identified four areas in and around the City of Madison for which it would like CONSULTANT to provide costs for Tasks 1-5. These areas are as follows, and as shown in Attachment A (“Project Location Map”):

- Area A: City of Madison Base Area (93 square miles)
 - Area A encompasses the current municipal boundaries, smaller “islands” of non-city areas, and areas that will be annexed in the near future. This is the primary area of interest for this RFP.
- Area B: City of Fitchburg (10.6 square miles)
- Area C: Town of Burke (2.9 square miles)
- Area D: Village of Shorewood Hills (0.8 square miles)

The City is requesting that CONSULTANT provide cost estimates for Tasks 1-5 for Areas A-D. Please see Attachment B (“Cost Estimate Proposal”) for more information on the breakdown of costs. The CONSULTANT shall note that City may elect to not complete Area A, Tasks 2-5 or Areas B-C, Tasks 1-5 at this time; this decision will be based upon various factors, including immediate information needs and budget for project.

I. Task 1: Create a Complete, Unclassified Impervious Layer

The CONSULTANT shall create a vector (polygon) format impervious layer of each Area A-D as outlined above. The layer shall be delivered to the City of Madison in a geodatabase with metadata. Impervious areas shall include roads, sidewalks, buildings, driveways, bike paths, and any building or shelter larger than 10'x10'.

Each individual impervious surface must be a separate polygon, but under this task, individual impervious area polygons do not need to be classified by impervious land use type. The final impervious layer shall be free from any gaps, overlaps, or slivers. CONSULTANT may generate the impervious layer using any combination of the existing data provided by City Engineering with this RFP. The metadata shall include a section indicating strength of data if the CONSULTANT feels some data sources are not as accurate as others. A list and description of data available to the CONSULTANT is included in Section C. CONSULTANT must provide a description of their intended layer development methodology in their response to this RFP.

Features should reasonably accurately reflect actual position, shape, and size of impervious cover at a scale of 1:1000. There shall be no gaps, overlaps, or slivers within the final layer.

The data shall be delivered in Wisconsin County Coordinate System – Dane Zone, NAD83 datum (NAD_1983_HARN_WISCRS_Dane_County_Feet).

For each Area A-D, Task 1 deliverables will include:

- Unclassified impervious layer in vector format in a geodatabase with metadata, as described above.
 - Layer shall be viewable in Autodesk Civil3D CAD software and ArcGIS.
- Written report detailing how the layer was created.
- Written QA/QC report, including 15 parcels greater than or equal to 1 acre in area where the impervious identification has been quality checked. For each parcel/location selected for QA/QC, errors shall be described and quantified based on total parcel and total impervious areas.

II. Task 2: Impervious Layer Maintenance Guidance

The City understands the impervious areas in the City change as development and re-development occur. In order to understand what the updating process would look like, and to help budget for future updates, the CONSULTANT shall provide the following information:

- Step-by-step process (with cost) to update layer from Task 1 based on future Ortho flights (every 2-4 years).
- Step-by-step process (with cost) to update layer from Task 1 based on future LiDAR flights (every 5-10 years).
- If applicable, summary of alternative approach(es) to update layer (with cost/s) based on CONSULTANT's experience.

This step is for budget planning only. The CONSULTANT shall only be completing the initial impervious layer build-out with this RFP.

III. Task 3: Classify Basic Features

The CONSULTANT shall use the unclassified impervious layer created in Task 1 to develop a composite land use layer including both impervious and pervious surfaces within the boundaries of Areas A-D. Individual surface polygons within this composite layer shall then be classified by the CONSULTANT by land use type. A field titled "source_area" shall be added to composite layer, and each polygon shall be identified as one of the following major source areas (as taken from the ArcSLAMM "Source Area Field Guide"):

Impervious Surface Types

- Roof
- Parking
- Unpaved Parking
- Sidewalks
- Driveways
- Water Body Areas
- Streets
- Alleys
- Playground
- Other Impervious Areas

Pervious Surface Types

- Landscaped Areas
- Undeveloped Areas
- Other Pervious Areas
- Isolated Areas

CONSULTANT must provide a description of their intended layer development methodology in their response to this RFP.

For each Area A-D, Task 3 deliverables will include:

- Composite layer, classified by land use, in vector format in a geodatabase with metadata, as described above.
 - Layer shall be viewable in Autodesk Civil3D CAD software and ArcGIS.
- Written report detailing how the layer was created.
- Written QA/QC report, including 15 parcels greater than or equal to 1 acre in area where the land use classification has been quality checked. For each parcel/location selected for QA/QC, errors shall be described and quantified based on total parcel areas and individual land use errors.

IV. Task 4: Classify Flat vs. Sloped Roofs

The CONSULTANT shall modify the layer developed in Task 3 to sub-classify all roof areas as either flat or pitched roofs. If a roof is not flat, it shall be considered pitched.

CONSULTANT must provide a description of their intended layer development methodology in their response to this RFP. If CONSULTANT determines that additional data will be needed to complete this task, CONSULTANT shall include the following information in their response:

- Description of the additional data required,
- Description of (and cost for) collection of additional data, and

- Description of (and cost for) the processing of additional data.

In developing a methodology for Task 4, CONSULTANT shall assume that Task 4 will not move forward without the completion of Task 3. All deliverables from Task 3 shall be available to CONSULTANT for Task 4.

For each Area A-D, Task 4 deliverables will include:

- Composite layer, classified by land use in Task 3 and with roof land use polygons further classified as “Flat Roof” and “Pitched Roof”, in vector format in a geodatabase with metadata, as described above.
 - Layer shall be viewable in Autodesk Civil3D CAD software and ArcGIS.

V. Task 5: Classify Features for Use with ArcSLAMM

The impervious layer shall include any impervious surfaces listed below and classified for compatibility with ArcSLAMM. ArcSLAMM can be found here: <https://www.geotree.uni.edu/en/extension/arcsamm-packages/>

The ArcSLAMM download includes the ArcGIS extension as well as documents describing the data. Specifically the “SourceAreaFieldGuide.pdf” should be reviewed. Additional classification will be needed from Step 3 and 4.

For each Area A-D, Task 5 deliverables will include:

- An impervious layer classified for compatibility with ArcSLAMM as a polygons layer in a geodatabase.

C. Available Data

The following information has been previously collected by the City of Madison and is available to the CONSULTANT via the City’s FTP site (instructions below). All information listed below is in feature class format and is stored in a geodatabase on that site. Feature classes are referenced to Wisconsin County Coordinate System – Dane Zone, NAD83 datum (NAD_1983_HARN_WISCRS_Dane_County_Feet).

Previously Delineated Impervious Features

- All non-residential and two family parcels (buildings, private sidewalks, parking lots, etc) (polygon) [feature class name: SWU_ImperviousAreas]
 - B=building
 - M=Misc
 - P=Parking
 - S=Sidewalk
 - V=Void (donut holes)
 - NOTE: this layer has overlaps/slivers that need to be corrected before being utilized in the final product impervious layer.
- All building footprints (footprint greater than or equal to 10’x10’) (polygon) [feature class name: BuildingFootprint_DaneCo]
 - This layer is a Dane County GIS layer and should be used secondary to the SWU_ImperviousAreas, which should be more accurate
- Open water (polygon) [feature class name: HydroPoly_RFPArea]

- This data is secondary to the EngineeringFeatures for open water data, as it is older and less accurate

Aerial/LiDAR

- 2016 LiDAR (raster) -- feature class name, sample tiles:
 - DEM: 137_elev.flt, 138_elev.flt
 - Classified Point Cloud, LAS: Class_137.las, Class_138.las
 - First Return LAS: FR_LAS_138.las, FR_LAS_137.las
 - Area covers approximately 183 square miles. Lidar data was acquired with a nominal point spacing (NPS) of 1.0 meters. The data was developed based on a horizontal projection/datum of Wisconsin County Reference System (WISCRS) – Dane County Coordinates; North American Datum 1983 (2011), survey feet, and vertically geo-referenced to the North American Vertical Datum 1988, survey feet. LiDAR data was acquired using the Trimble Harrier sensor. Collection occurred in March 2016 during leaf-off conditions, while no snow was on the ground and rivers were at or below normal levels. The LiDAR data was calibrated using information collected at the time of flight from GPS base stations on the ground and airborne GPS/IMU in the aircraft. The calibrated LiDAR data was processed to produce a classified point cloud, bare earth DEM, break lines and other LiDAR derivatives. The LiDAR data was delivered according to a 5,000 foot x 5,000 foot tile schematic. The purpose of these LiDAR data was to produce high accuracy 3D hydro-flattened Digital Elevation Model (DEM) with a 3.125 foot cell size. These raw LIDAR point cloud data were used to create classified LiDAR LAS files, 3D break lines, hydro-flattened DEMs, and other LiDAR-base derivatives as necessary. Point Classes are as follows: 1 = Processed, Unclassified 2 = Bare Earth Ground 7 = Low Points (Noise) 9 = Water 10 = Ignored Ground 11 = Withheld
- 2018 3" Orthos with 4-band data (raster) [feature class name, sample tiles: 79425E476796N.tif, 79689E476796N.tif]

If such a separate contract is executed it shall constitute the entire agreement and no other terms and conditions, whether oral or written, shall be effective or binding unless expressly agreed to in writing by the City.

If a Separate Contract is not executed, these Standard Terms and Conditions, the City's request for proposals, the version of the vendor's bid that was accepted by the City, and the City's Purchase Order (if any) shall constitute a contract and will be the entire agreement.

Order of Precedence: If there is a conflict between this Section A and any terms in the vendor's accepted bid or proposal, this Section A shall control unless the parties expressly agree to another order of precedence, in writing. If there is a conflict between this Section A and a Separate Contract, the terms and conditions of the Separate Contract shall control.

I. TERMS FOR SUBMISSION OF BIDS: The following section applies to the bid/selection process only.

5. Price Proposal. All bidders are required to identify the proposed manufacturer and model, and to indicate the proposed delivery time on the attached Proposal Form. Failure to do so may cause the bid to be considered not responsive. If desired, the bidder may include product literature and specifications. The price quoted will remain firm throughout each contract period. Any price increase proposed shall be submitted sixty (60) calendar days prior to subsequent contract periods and shall be limited to fully documented cost increases to the bidder which are demonstrated to be industry-wide.

6. Price Inclusion. The price quoted in any bid shall include all items of labor, materials, tools, equipment, and other costs necessary to fully complete the furnishing and delivery of equipment or services pursuant to the specifications attached thereof.
