HR Spotlight: #TeamCity Employee Survey Updates

The City of Madison conducted the National Employee Survey from November 3, 2025 – December 1, 2025, giving employees across the organization an opportunity to share their experiences, perspectives, and ideas. We are incredibly grateful to the 1,832 employees who took time to participate – your voices matter, and your engagement helped achieve an impressive 60% overall response rate.

The summary of results are now available for review on the TeamCity employee survey webpage, offering an initial snapshot of key themes and trends across the organization. However, the data itself will not be available until a full analysis is completed. These insights provide an important foundation as the City continues its commitment to listening, learning, and improving our workplace together.

Demographic data comparisons are currently under review by HR, DCR, and the Finance Data Team. Affinity Groups will provide input on narrative findings before results are shared with the organization.

Once demographic findings are finalized, citywide data and messaging will be shared with all staff, along with next steps and opportunities for continued dialogue. Thank you again for your participation for helping shape the future of our workplace.

Organizational Development

Human Resources Management (HRM) Project Progress

Thanks to strong teamwork across City agencies, the HRM contract is officially signed. A lot of thoughtful work went into reaching this milestone, and the momentum is building.

You might be wondering how this is different from past efforts. This time, we have a signed contract with NEOGOV for a full HRM system, not just a Learning Management System. We also have strong supports in place to help ensure success, including:

- Clear #TeamCity people strategy & need for technology
- Mayoral & Common Council support
- Close collaboration between HR, IT, & Finance
- Dedicated staff & time focused on implementation
- Strong talent & change management foundation
- A Core Team & a Steering Team guiding the work

There will be plenty of chances to stay informed, ask questions, and share feedback. In early April, we're launching a one-stop shop EmployeeNet site with updates and answers.

The new HRM system will make things easier – mobile access to your HR information, self-service forms, and simple ways to take and track training – so you can focus on your career experience with #TeamCity.

New Tool Alert!

Gender-Inclusive Workplace Resource Guide for Supervisors

A new guide is available to help supervisors make workplaces more welcoming for everyone. The Gender-Inclusive Workplace Resources for Supervisors tool provides tips and information on creating an inclusive environment. It is useful for all workspaces and folks at any level of advocacy.

This easy-to-use guide was created based on feedback and experiences from other supervisors. Keep it handy for quick reference and explore the other support tools on the Gender Inclusive Workplace site.

Management Development Competencies are LIVE!

Over the past year, HR gathered trainings, tools, and resources aligned with eight Management Development Competencies.

These were developed to support our mission to hire, retain, engage, and grow a diverse, high-performing, and inclusive workforce.

You can now access webpages for each competency, its definition, and resources to build knowledge, skills, and ability in each area on EmployeeNet:

1. Accountability: Taking ownership of actions and results.
2. Change Management & Agility: Leading people through change with flexibility.
3. Communication: Sharing information clearly and effectively.
4. Developing individuals & Building Teams: Growing people and strengthening teamwork.
5. Emotional Intelligence: Understanding and managing emotions (yours and others).
6. Influence & Trust Building: Building credibility and motivating others.
7. Solution Finding: Identifying issues and choosing effective solutions.
8. Strategy Development: Setting goals, priorities, and using resources wisely.

A huge thank you to the City leaders who helped make this possible over the past two years. When you grow, our organization grows too.

Coming soon: A pilot Management Development Program launching in Q2 for a select group of leaders, focused on; Accountability, Emotional Intelligence, Change Management, and Developing Individuals & Building Teams.

UniverCity Alliance Grant Award

The City of Madison's UniverCity Alliance partnership received $5,000 from the Kemper Knapp bequest. This award will increase the number of interns hired to support city agencies to complete projects. Interns are UW-Madison students not receiving college credit for their work, yet receive a stipend upon completion of a project. Do you have a specific project idea a student intern or course at UW could work on? Reach out to UniverCity Alliance board member in HR-OD, Kara Kratowicz, for a brief consultation to discuss project needs and potential for pairing.
